TAIT BOYS SHOW

PICTURES IN ORIENT

Eddie and Stewart Tait send their aloha from Manila to all their friends in Honolulu. In a letter received from Manila by the Manchuria Stewart Tait says that he has an equal interest in the Oriente Theater with N. G. Hartery. The business is known as the American Film Service. The Oriente is about the best paying of all the amusement houses, although the show business is not altogether up to Tait's expectations.

The company opened up a branch in Hilo and Eddie took the Arcade machines which formerly comprised the business in Honolulu known as "It," over to Shanghai. He is also to investigate the prospects for moving picture shows there for Stewart.

"This is what you would call a poor show town," adds Stewart. "Very little money is probably the chief reason. You cannot expect much money in a country where there are coins as low in value as a quarter of a cent."

"The carnival was a grand success, but from a business point of view, an absolute failure. Crowds of people attended the ground but very little money was spent. Eddie was interested in eight concessions but did not make anything."
